U.S. Missile Jets Are Sent to Viet Borders

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jet fighters equipped with air to air missiles have been heading toward the Communist north the past few days to meet the threat of approaching Red Chinese MIG planes, U.S. military sources say.

Though no clashes have taken place, the opposing flights were reported close enough to make positive radar identification, the sources added.

Saigon, capital of South Viet Nam, held an air raid alert Sunday, its first since World War II when U.S. planes bombed the Japanese-occupied city.

Communist propaganda organs renewed charges against the United States for its reprisal action against North Viet Nam last week. And North Viet Nam indicated it was rejecting a U.N. Security Council invitation to take part in a debate on the crisis.

Informants said the Chinese MIGs, flying from Hainan Island across the Gulf of Tonkin, halted short of the heavily-reinforced frontier and U.S. naval units in the South China Sea. The American planes were F102 fighters from the Da Nang Air Base and Navy F4 and F8 jets from the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Some 30 U.S. jets moved into position Saturday to meet a possible Communist thrust, sources said.

Communist China said Sunday that the U.S. raid on North Viet Nam gives Peking "the right to take action" in "every possible form" to help the North Vietnamese regime.

Peking People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party, said in an editorial quoted in a radio broadcast: "U.S. (Turn to Page A4, Column 1)

U. S. Experts Still Puzzled About Red Viet Attacks

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT
WASHINGTON — (Special) — Top Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress still are just as much in the dark as the public as to what was behind those provocative North Vietnamese attacks that caused the U.S. to blast their torpedo boat bases.

The congressional chiefs got no answer to this mystery at their meeting with the President when he told them of his decision to resort to armed retaliation.

Red China Sends Troops, Planes to North Viet Nam

By CHARLES R. SMITH
CAP. ST. JACQUES, Viet Nam (UPI) — Prime Minister Gen. Nguyen Khanh said today he had "definite reports" of Communist Chinese troops movements in North Viet Nam.

Khanh at a news conference also reiterated that at least 15 fighter planes from Red China had moved into Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. But he said he was uncertain whether they were piloted by Chinese or Vietnamese.

Khanh was asked if he had actual reports of Chinese Communist troop movements in North Viet Nam.

"Not exactly on the 17th Parallel (the frontier with South Viet Nam), but let's say in North Viet Nam," he replied. He said the reports were from "intelligence" sources.

Asked how the Chinese Communists were moving, Khanh replied, "they move by any kind of route. They have railroads coming from Yunnan (a province in southwestern China) to Hanoi."

He declined to estimate the number of Red Chinese troops he thought were involved.

There was no word, meantime, on the first U.S. civilian official ever to fall into Communist hands here. Joseph L. Granger of Sumner, N.C., was captured by Viet Cong guerrillas on Saturday.

Ten Are Hurt In Two-Car Springs Crash

Ten persons were injured and an estimated $1,800 damage done in a two-car accident at Bijou and Walnut Streets Sunday morning, police reported.

The accident happened at 1:45 a.m. when a Yellow Cab driven by Larry Tyrone Rents, 24, of the Air Force Academy, collided with the car of Loretta Irene Crews, 22, of Denver.

There were six persons in the cab and four in the Wilkins car. Six persons were taken to St. Francis Hospital by E and E Ambulance. They were: Pamela L. Coyle, 18, of 1501 Woodburn St., fractured pelvis and cuts; Harold L. Williams, 20, Ft. Carson, treated for contusions and released; Mary L. Newsom, 18, (Turn to Page A4, Column 1)

Hoover Notes Birthday; Praises Freedom of Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, marking his 90th birthday today, says "freedom of choice" is what made America great.

"Freedom is the open window through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit and of human dignity," he said. "With the preservation of these moral and spiritual qualities and with God's grace will come further greatness for our country."

Charges Expected To Be Filed in Double Shooting

Charges are expected to be filed today against a suspect in the double shooting Saturday night in the Wayside Inn in Fountain, said Police Chief William Solwedel.

The District Attorney's office said that charges could not be filed before then until they received a case report from Fountain police.

One victim, William E. Lucas, 44, of Fountain, was reported in critical condition this morning in Penrose Hospital.

The second man, Martin J. Christian, 48, Fountain rancher, was listed in satisfactory condition this morning in St. Francis Hospital.

Solwedel said that Christian was shot in the bar of the Wayside Inn, and Lucas in the cafe. Both men were shot in the stomach. The weapon was believed to be a .32 caliber automatic pistol.

The suspect is being held in El Paso County Jail. Fountain does not have a jail.

It was reported that about 25 persons were in the cafe at the time of the shooting. Three patrons wrestled the suspect to the floor, took his gun, and held him for authorities.

No motive was disclosed for the shooting.

SHOTS ACCIDENTALLY
MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — Former Marine commander George Bagnoll shot what he thought was a burglar here but it turned out to be his wife, Mary. Mrs. Bagnoll was reported to be in satisfactory condition with a wound in the left thigh.

"I've apologized to my wife," said Bagnoll, "and she has been very good about it all."

Legislation of 'Time' Planned in Congress

By STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The words "daylight saving time" and America's crazy-quilt time system may be on the way out.

A House Commerce subcommittee will take up and likely approve a bill Tuesday that overhauls the U.S. time system and attempts to bring order out of what the Interstate Commerce Commission calls "increasing chaos" in American time.

A similar bill was approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. No public opposition has arisen so far, and there just may be enough time left to push the bill through Congress before the session ends.

Basically the bill would set up uniform areas that would move

By HAL MCCLURE
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkey and the Greek Cypriot government agreed to a U.N. Security Council call for a cease-fire on this embattled island today. A brief Turkish air attack on a northwest village before Turkey's announcement sent a new scare through Cyprus.

Greece said it hoped the straining attack on a square in Polis was due to a mix-up in Turkish military orders.

A government source in Nicosia said 10 persons were wounded in the Polis attack.

A Turkish government spokesman said after a Cabinet meeting in Ankara that Turkey would accept the U.N. call for the cease-fire, but only on the condition that Greek Cypriots halt their attacks on Turks on the island. The Turkish Cabinet met an hour after reports of the Polis attack reached Ankara.

The Greek Cypriot government said it had ordered a cease-fire unilaterally as of Saturday. It made no mention of fighting that erupted around the Turkish village of Kokkina Sunday or around Nicosia Sunday night.

A Greek Cypriot spokesman said: "In a statement today, Archbishop Makarios (Cyprus' president) said the government of the Cyprus republic will fully respect a Security Council resolution on the case-fire in Cyprus."

There were no reports of ground fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots in the tense northwest coastal strip between Polis and Xeros.

The Soviet Union assailed the series of Turkish attacks and warned Turkey that it is risking war.

The attack on Polis was the fourth consecutive day of Turkish air activity over Cyprus.

A Greek Cypriot spokesman said there was no word from Polis on whether there were casualties.

Alex Efty, an Associated Press correspondent at the scene, said the American-built F104 jets appeared while the townspeople were sipping coffee in the main square, most of them talking about the crisis. He said the villagers ducked for cover before the jets made two runs, firing into the square.

In Paris, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization disclosed that Turkey was withdrawing some of her air force from the alliance "for use in her national interest."

The announcement from Supreme Allied Headquarters for Europe said "such action is permissible and provided for under the NATO treaty." The United States, Britain and other NATO members have been strenuously pressing for a settlement of the Cyprus strife to avoid an open

'Limited Turkish Invasion' Charged by Cyprus Chiefs

By A. I. GOLDBERG
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Cyprus asked for another urgent session of the U.N. Security Council today to consider a Turkish air attack this morning on a Cypriot village and what it called a "limited invasion" by Turkish troops.

Council members, weary after two days of urgent sessions, consulted on a time for the meeting.

Cyprus made the request to Ambassador Sivert A. Nielsen of Norway, the council president for August.

The Cypriot delegation claimed the Turks landed military personnel and materiel from warships between midnight and 4 a.m., Cyprus time.

The air attack was carried out by two Turkish jets on the northwest coastal village of Polis. A Greek Cypriot spokesman in Nicosia said 10 persons were wounded.

Cyprus asked for an urgent session Sunday night but later withdrew it on the basis of what it called "confused" reports from the area.

Nielsen awaited a report from Secretary-General U. Thant on the military situation on Cyprus before calling the council into session.

Sunday, the council called for a firm cease-fire on Cyprus after struggling with the crisis at two urgent sessions over the weekend.

An unofficial truce has gone into effect on the Mediterranean island, but Cypriot and Turkish envoys to the United Nations said their governments reserved the right to use force again if the truce appeared to break down.

The council held a meeting Saturday night that extended past midnight, then went back into session later Sunday morning after Turkish planes launched new death-dealing raids on Cyprus towns.

After numerous delays and haggling over wording, the council directed its president to appeal for a cease-fire by both Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot elements and by Turkey. Then it approved a resolution sponsored by the United States and Britain reinforcing the demand.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the council it was exposing itself to ridicule by delays.

Stevenson said the question of trying to apportion blame could be dealt with after the council got hostilities stopped and the commander of the U.N. force in Cyprus, Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, could report on the events of the last five days.

Americans Are Evacuated From Cyprus Island

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Thirty-five American evacuees, mostly the dependents of U.S. officials on Cyprus, arrived from the island today aboard a U.S. Air Force C-140 cargo plane.

A U.S. Embassy statement said the plane had flown blood plasma to Cyprus at the request of the Cyprus government.

An embassy spokesman said the evacuees were expected to stay in Beirut and see how the situation develops. He said no further American evacuees were expected here at the moment.

U.S. Pressures Turkey, Cyprus to End Fighting

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States pressed diplomatic efforts today to keep the lid on the Cyprus cease-fire and propel it toward an eventual permanent solution.

After an opening round of top-level diplomacy in which President Johnson cabled personal appeals Sunday to the Greek, Turkish and Cypriot government heads, Washington was channeling its main efforts through the United Nations.

Renewed hostilities, U.S. officials feared, could bring on a war between Greece and Turkey that would shatter NATO's eastern flank and conceivably pave the way for a wider East-West conflict.

Undersecretary of State

George W. Ball voiced the U.S. view Sunday night after a weekend of efforts to shut off Greek Cypriot attacks on Turkish Cypriot positions and counterattacks by planes and warships from Turkey.

Johnson's appeals to the three government heads and the U.N. Security Council's cease-fire call at an emergency afternoon session highlighted the feverish diplomatic effort.

"We should avoid a conflict which would be disastrous for all concerned, and we've made progress toward this tonight," Ball said in a CBS interview. "I am hopeful that we can bring this problem toward a permanent solution rather quickly."

U.S. diplomats hoped that the

Pope Proposes to Mediate To Maintain World Peace

VATICAN CITY, (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in his first encyclical letter, offered today to intervene in disputes threatening world peace.

He also proposed a joint discussion with non-Christian religions aimed at defending common ideals.

The 14,000-word encyclical — a letter to Roman Catholic bishops around the world — put down "practical guidelines" for Paul's 13-month-old pontificate.

It was a broad statement of the role of the Roman Catholic Church in the modern world. Its title — Ecclesiam Suam, His Church — was derived from the first two words of its official Latin text. The reference is to the church or its basic structure.

The encyclical was divided into four parts: A prologue of the paths open to the church, a section on church awareness of itself, another on the renewal under way in the church, and the last on the dialogue between the church and the world.

He renewed pledges to work for Christian unity and spoke of finding "greater courage to undertake the necessary reforms" started in the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

But he reaffirmed the Roman Catholic concept of papal primacy and said he was distressed that many non-Catholic Christians considered the papacy a "stumbling block" to unity. He asserted he could not "compromise with the integrity" of the Catholic faith in seeking unity.

Council reforms, he added, "cannot concern either the essential concept of the church or its basic structure."

WORRY CLINIC

Harry is like 10.00.00 "worry warts" who call on doctors every week. He actually has nothing organically wrong. But he is a slave to fear. And he has a sex complex that I'll outline tomorrow. But scrapbook this case or mail it to other hypochondriacs.

By George W. Crane
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-443: Harry G., aged 42, is a "worry wart."

"Dr. Crane," his vivacious wife began, "Harry must be a typical hypochondriac."

"For he frets all the time about his health. And he keeps our medicine cabinet full of pills and bottled medicines."

"He sprays his throat and nostrils and literally takes 5 or 6 different pills every morning. 'Some are red and some are green. Others are yellow, blue or white."

"And he has patronized four different doctors in the last year, but none of them seems to find anything seriously wrong with Harry."

"That's why he changes physicians so frequently, for I really believe he keeps hunting some doctor who will pronounce him as sick."

"Dr. Crane, what's wrong with people who are such chronic worry warts about their health?"

Fear is usually at the bottom of such cases.

And fear is a Siamese twin of introverted thinking.

When you focus mainly on yourself, your perspective grows narrowed.

Then you begin to magnify innocent little gas bubbles percolating along your intestine and worry lest you have cancer or peptic ulcer.

People who are a slave to their "innards" thus are not properly extroverted.

They are too self-centered for their major focus in on S-E-L-F. Social conditions often predispose to the creation of worry warts.

For example, a wife with children and many outside church, civic or PTA obligations is not as likely to fear illness as much as a childless widow or a spinster or bachelor.

For when a person is living alone, he or she tends to wonder:

"Suppose something should happen to me! Who'd look after me?"

"Why, I might fall to the floor with a heart attack but nobody'd miss me until I didn't show up for work the next day!"

And with such negative ideas flitting through the margin of her consciousness, the spinster (or bachelor) soon decides she better have a medical check-up.

Since 70,000,000 Americans do not belong to any church at all, and are thus trying to go it alone, they begin to feel unduly oppressed with financial, as well as health worries.

For nobody is strong enough or smart enough to handle all his problems by himself.

Teaming up with God thus relieves such tension and lowers blood pressure, too.

But the 70,000,000 are not partners with the Almighty. So they tend to shift their allegiance to physicians and almost worship the M.D.

That's why we medics are swamped each week with millions of worry warts who have no diagnosable physical ailments whatsoever.

For 50 per cent of our office practice (20,000,000 patients call on doctors every week), is composed of hypochondriacs.

The best advice for worry warts is thus to link up with a neighborhood church and become partners with the Almighty.

Then select a suitable partner and get married! For married men live several years longer than bachelors and don't need as many pills. See tomorrow's diagnosis of Harry.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

HASKILL, Tex. (AP) — Four men found out that the rates come pretty high on some "phone" calls. The quartet paid fines of $50 each plus court costs of $25.20 each for phoning fish with a crank type telephone apparatus. Wires extended into the water produce shock waves, which cause non-scale fish to surface and become easy mark for fishermen. It's considered unsportsmanlike and illegal in this area.

ROTARY MUSEUM ON WHEELS—Merrill R. Crocker stands at the entrance to his traveling collection of famous guns and Americana sponsored by the West

Traveling Gun Show Includes Odd Weapons

Priceless weapons are in the gun show on wheels sponsored by the East Side-Manitou Springs Rotary Club, parked at Bancroft Park.

The show of guns and Americana in a 53-foot trailer was assembled by Merrill R. Crocker. He will live in the camper on the pickup truck which pulls the trailer when he tours the country. Donations will go to pay expenses and to the Rotary fund for youth activities.

Perhaps Crocker's rarest display is of airguns — more potent weapons than their modern adaptation — pellet guns.

Most of these weapons were charged with demountable balls filled with compressed air. A 1560 air gun of German manufacture was cranked to provide power. An Austrian repeating air gun made in 1799 was the type used against Napoleon in the July 6, 1809 Battle of Wagram. Despite the formidable weapons, the Austrians lost.

Suicide Saturday night specials are another integrated collection. Crocker attributes the label to the shoddy manufacture of the handguns. The user couldn't be sure which end would shoot. Models include the "Swamp Angel," "Robin Hood" and "Dictator." Small handguns, Crocker explains, were popular at the turn of the century when it was fashionable to have a gun in the house.

A prominent exhibit has weapons used to murder presidents John Kennedy and Abraham Lincoln. "Lincoln murder model" and 6.5 Italian carbine used on Kennedy. "There was a run of this model by collectors after the president was shot," said Crocker.

Lethal cane guns and swords are included in a cane display. The guns were mainly used by opposing forces in England: poachers and gamekeepers.

One cane is inscribed, "To My Partner F. G. Bonfils from Henry H. Tamm." They were famous editors of the Denver Post. Though this cane was not a weapon, bullets once flew in the editorial offices of the Post and the building was sacked by an angry mob.

Communists Blamed For JFK Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities says the propaganda and agitation campaigns of the Communist party were responsible for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

However, the committee said it takes no position on the question of "whether the assassination of President Kennedy was an individual act or the work of conspiracy."

A presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren is expected to conclude next month that accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was a loner who acted out of his own aberrations when he fired the bullets that killed Kennedy last Nov. 22 in Dallas.

The House committee discussed Kennedy's murder in its annual report issued Sunday. It recommended that Congress pass a law making assassination of the president or vice president a federal crime.

Reporter Tries To Trace Old World Village

By DOROTHY HEESAKKER
HEESAKKER, The Netherlands (UPI) — There isn't a Heesakker in Heesakker.

We had been told that "Heesakker" is a very small village south of 's-Hertogenbosch, about 10 kilometers. But the taxi driver in Tilberg never heard of it. Seeing it on the map, he agreed to take us for $3. Perhaps still doubtful, he stopped in Haaren to check the route.

"When we see the entrance sign we must stop for pictures," we said.

The driver assured us it would not be the sort of sign we expected. We wondered what he had learned in Haaren.

Then there it was — Heesakker — on a street sign, just like any city street sign. But the street was out in the country, at the edge of Haaren. A herd of pigs, so big we thought they might be naked buffalo, and a herd of black and white cows — that was all that was moving at noon Sunday in the "very small" village.

On the mile-long street were a half dozen houses, some with thatched roofs. We were told no such roofs are allowed to be built now and no insurance can be had for such houses because the roofs are fire traps.

But is the street all there is to Heesakker?

The fields, we are told. The land stretches back for miles on both sides of the road. (It really is just a road but one is inclined to call it a street because it has a street sign.)

"Your daddy came from here," they tell us.

"No, he didn't. He came from Bakel on the other side of 's-Hertogenbosch."

"He came from here. It is a small clan. So his daddy or granddaddy had to come from here."

We didn't argue the point. But what about those other two villages named Heesakker in North Brabant which are not on the map but are in the railroad book?

They are smaller. Smaller? A half road maybe? Less land?

"A man named Hees owned the field; then it became Hees' akker, the field of Hees. Long ago. So you see your daddy's family came from here."

But nobody by that name lives here. There was only one Heesakker in Amsterdam, two in Rotterdam, one in 's-Hertogenbosch; surely there would be a few here. Instead, only farmers named Baast - deBrouwer, Brock, Simons, Vlokhoven, Vughts.

No church, no post office, no store, no gas pump.

At the end of the road is another signpost with two words atop it. One says and points to Heesakker; the other says Noes, the name of the next cluster of houses on the same stretch of road.

Slowly we go back on the road which is Heesakker and the driver hopes we enjoyed our visit even though there is no Heesakker in Heesakker.

But that was the day there was.

Vice Presidential Issue Still Subject of Debate

By J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American government, though a work of genius, still has points that are open to criticism.

One is the system for picking vice-presidential nominees.

It has come to be assumed that if the presidential nominee of a party wants to decide the choice of his running mate, he can do it.

The argument runs: A president is responsible for his administration, so it is only right that he pick his own team, certainly his No. 2 man.

But is it fair? Is it democratic for one man to make the decision, which could be fateful for the country? You can get an argument here.

No one doubts that President Johnson's voice will be the deciding one when the Democrats round out their ticket at Atlantic City this month.

Similarly, it was Barry Goldwater who did the deciding for the Republican convention at San Francisco, when the vice-presidential choice was William E. Miller.

And everybody knows how singlehandedly John F. Kennedy picked Lyndon B. Johnson to run with him in 1960.

A man running for a presidential nomination has it tough. He frequently has to go through great campaign agonies in a drive for votes — and spend a lot of money.

But to become the vice presidential nominee nowadays, a man doesn't have to do anything but look good to one other man — the presidential nominee.

It hasn't always been this way. The nation's founding fathers set up a system whereby the runner-up for president became the vice president. That system was junked with the growth of political parties.

And it hasn't always been the case even in recent years that the presidential nominee had the whole say-so on the vice-presidential pick. In 1956 Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, left the selection up to the convention.

But for the most part, the presidential nominees more and more have called the vice-presidential shots.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave his blessing to Richard M. Nixon for second place on his Republican ticket. He stuck with Nixon again in 1956.

In 1932 John Nance Garner, loser to Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination, was handed the vice-presidential nomination.

Later Garner criticized Roosevelt's third term plans. Roosevelt dropped him and picked Henry A. Wallace for his running mate. Then, in 1944 FDR let Wallace go and in the end it was Harry S. Truman who was vice president when Roosevelt died.

Instantly after instance could be cited of the chancy, sometimes almost whimsical, ways in which vice presidents have been chosen.

Yet, eight men picked for vice president for one reason or another — sometimes by one man alone — have succeeded to the most powerful office in the land, not through merit but because the president died.

Dr. Classen, who called the surgery "major," said the operation would be this afternoon or Tuesday, if tests and X-rays indicate it is necessary. The physician said he and his staff would perform the operation.

Sheppard Goes To Hospital for Slipped Disc

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard, convicted of the bludgeoning slaying of his wife in 1954, has entered a hospital where he may have to undergo surgery for a slipped disc in his back.

The former suburban Bay Village osteopath, released from the penitentiary on $10,000 bond last month after serving almost nine years, entered Brentwood Hospital Sunday.

"He has a back condition that has gradually worsened in the past six months," said Dr. Theodore F. Classen, the hospital's chief of staff.

Sheppard married Ariane Tebejenjohans shortly after being released from prison. He and the blonde German divorcee became engaged after correspondence she started while he was in prison.

A U.S. District Court judge Freed Sheppard, saying his constitutional rights were violated during his trial. Sheppard was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The state has appealed the order freeing him, and a hearing will be held in October.

Dr. Classen, who called the surgery "major," said the operation would be this afternoon or Tuesday, if tests and X-rays indicate it is necessary. The physician said he and his staff would perform the operation.

Emmy Winner Still Actor in Half-Hour Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Interviews with Jack Klugman usually start with one question: "What on earth is the actor who won an Emmy for last season's finest dramatic performance doing playing father in one of these half-hour situation comedies?"

Klugman's forthright response provides no release from press agent pain.

"I signed to do the show before I got the Emmy. Of course I'd never have done it if the Emmy had come first."

Klugman gave an impressive performance on CBS' "The Defenders" as an actor whose left-wing political beliefs destroyed his career.

In October he will turn up as a regular in a piece of NBC fluff called "Harris Against the World." It is part of a comedy trilogy titled "90 Bristol Court."

"They offered me a firm commitment for 26 weeks," Klugman continued, "and I decided to take the show because it was important for me to get stabilized for awhile. I found I was spending at least half my life out here in Hollywood at a time when it was important for my boy, who is five, to have his father around more."

He sold his home outside New York and the family is here now in a rented house.

"I really don't like it here," he said. "Sure, I know about the weather. I mean the techniques of movie-making. I know a lot of really bad actors who do very well because they know the techniques and tricks. I think the actors should be able to perform and the cameras should take pictures of them acting. I do not think that the actor should be the robot for the camera which is the trap you can get into."

But this comedy is all right, I think. Anyway, I'll give it everything I've got."

The approaching season in network television may not be the most exciting in history, but from an industry viewpoint, it is a safe one. There will be about

Ex-Soldier Held In Slaying of Two Young Girls

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — A slightly-built, nervous ex-soldier has been charged with first degree murder in the brutal slaying of two young daughters of an Illinois Circuit Court judge.

Andrew Pixley, 21, entered no plea and nervously twiddled his fingers when he appeared barefoot in Justice Court here on a charge of slaying Debby and Cindy McAuliffe, 12- and 8-year-old Maywood, Ill., girls, while they lay in their beds at a Jackson hotel.

Pixley was bound over to District Court without bond. The attorney appointed by the court to represent him advised Pixley not to give officers any statement concerning the slaying.

The two girls were raped and three times as many new half-hour shows in the prime-time network schedules as new hour-long shows. It is less costly and infinitely less disruptive to remove a faltering half-hour entry, costing between $50,000 and $65,000 per episode, from a lineup than to rip open a huge hole with the elimination of a 60-minute failure costing more than $100,000 per show.

All three networks had some bitter, expensive programming lessons last season — ABC with "The Jerry Lewis Show," CBS with "The Judy Garland Show," and NBC with "Espionage."

The National Association of Broadcasters' code which limits the time allowed for commercials has been temporarily liberalized so that stations can use paid political advertisements without counting them as commercial time.

strangled early Friday morning while their 6-year-old sister, Susan, slept nearby. Susan was not harmed.

County Atty. Floyd King said Pixley was barefoot and shirtless when caught in the girls' room by their father, Circuit Judge Robert McAuliffe. McAuliffe and his wife were down stairs at the Wort Hotel watching a western floor show when he heard a commotion and screaming in the girls' room. He dashed upstairs and found Debby and Cindy dead. Pixley was lying on the floor. McAuliffe held the man until officers arrived.

King said Pixley is scheduled to be arraigned in District Court at the next regular term, beginning Oct. 12. He said it is possible he may be arraigned earlier.

At the preliminary hearing Friday, Jackson Policeman James Jensen said a rock about 3½ inches in diameter and 1½ inches thick was found in the hotel room. King said the older girl apparently had been struck with the rock. Although the younger girl was strangled, King said there was no evidence she had been beaten.

Sheriff's officers said there was no apparent reason why the swarthy, dark-haired Pixley had his shoes off. His shoes were not found.

The McAuliffe family had been motoring through the West on a five-week vacation trip. They had been in Jackson two or three days.

Pixley last fall completed a two-year hitch in the U.S. Army, spending a year and a half overseas.

Police at Dallas, Ore., Pixley's boyhood home, said a warrant for his arrest had been issued Aug. 4 on a larceny charge. He had been accused of being in possession of a stolen automobile in Davenport, Wash., on July 25, but was released.

He had been in Jackson only three or four days before the slaying.

King said a Jackson jeweler surprised a man trying to steal a blanket from the back seat of his automobile Thursday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will require drugs containing the painkiller Phenacetin to carry labels warning that kidney damage may result from exceeding recommended dosage. The regulation, effective in 60 days, was announced Saturday and applied to drugs sold without prescription.

When used as recommended, FDA said, Phenacetin is considered a safe and useful analgesic. The labeling change was recommended by a special advisory committee of scientists.

Negro Students Practice Their Teaching Chores

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
CHICAGO (AP) — For 300 ambitious Negro high school students from Chicago's vast South Side, summer vacation doesn't mean a thing.

The students, at one time potential dropouts, are being tutored on hot summer days by a biracial group of enthusiastic college students, who also are giving up summer vacations.

The tutoring, conducted in community centers, churches and in students' homes, is part of a program known as the Student Woodlawn Area Project, or SWAP. It is one of the most successful among 60 volunteer tutoring projects in the Chicago area.

Similar projects exist in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Milwaukee and many other cities in the North.

"Our students are intelligent," explains Ann Cook, 24, a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N.Y., and a leader of SWAP. "But they and their (former school) teachers simply cannot communicate with each other."

Under the SWAP program, tutor and pupil meet each other as individuals, Miss Cook said in an interview Sunday.

"It's an emotional experience for both," she said.

"The students receive their lessons near their homes and get to meet and know a white person. And the white tutor gets to visit a Negro area and learn what the problems are."

"Usually it's the students' first close contact with whites, and the whites' first contact with Negroes," Miss Cook said.

aggressors, don't you rejoice too soon. Don't think you can get away with your surprise attack on the democratic Republic of Viet Nam. To tell you frankly, the debt in blood you owe the Vietnamese people must be repaid.

The U.S. air strike on North Viet Nam's shore bases last Wednesday was in retaliation for North Vietnamese PT boat attacks on U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

"The U.N. Security Council has no right to examine the clash between the United States and North Viet Nam, a statement by the North Vietnamese foreign ministry declared.

North Viet Nam's official newspapers Nhan Dan, said: "Our people will never be duped by the U.S. imperialists who intend to use the United Nations to execute their plan of slander against our country."

North Viet Nam's army command charged that two U.S. reconnaissance planes flew over Red soil Sunday. It protested to the International Control Commission which is responsible for supervising the Geneva agreement.

Communist guerrillas Sunday kidnapped a U.S. aid mission official 230 miles northeast of Saigon. Officials said Joseph W. Granger, 39, Sumner, S.C., was stopped by the Viet Cong while riding in a jeep with a Filipino technician and a Vietnamese sugar plantation director.

Granger was the first civilian U.S. official to be captured by the Viet Cong.

at Yankee Stadium on television Sunday and saw the ceremony in his honor.

In his statement, Hoover said, "Among us there is greater freedom for the individual man and woman than in any other nation."

Although specific freedoms were provided in the Constitution "there are a dozen other freedoms which are not a matter of specific law," he said.

These, he said, are "freedom to choose our own callings, freedom to quit a job and seek another, freedom to buy or not to buy, freedom for each man to venture and to protect his success, always subject to the rights of his neighbors."

The statement continued: "I have seen America in contrast with many nations and races. My profession (he was an engineer) took me into many foreign lands under many kinds of governments."

"I have worked with their great spiritual leaders and their great statesmen. I have seen freedom die and slavery arise," Hoover voiced "deep regret" at the denial of "an equal chance for our Negro population."

He added, however, "Our 19 million American Negroes probably own more automobiles than all the 220 million Russians and the 200 million African Negroes put together."

Greetings to Hoover included messages from former President Harry S. Truman, President Heinrich Lübke of West Germany, President Eamon De Valera of Ireland, and J. C. Penney, founder of the department store chain, who also is 90.

Hoover, who recently published his 32nd book, has been working off and on for the past 30 years on what a Hoover spokesman called his "magnum opus" dealing with the "Communist betrayal of the Western world."

The spokesman, Neil MacNeill, a former newspaper man now associated with Hoover, said the work started with diplomatic recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States in 1934.

Hoover's latest published work is the four-volume "An American Epic" dealing with this country's efforts to relieve hunger abroad. Hoover headed the Belgian Relief Committee in World War I.

A couple of days ago, MacNeill said, he asked Hoover how it felt to be almost 90 years old and getting all those honors.

"Too old," said Hoover. "About a week ago, a photographer was taking pictures of Hoover in his apartment to be released on his 90th birthday."

As Dr. Lepore told it, the photographer knelt on the floor to get a particular shot, and Hoover told an aide to get a pillow for the lensman.

"Nobody else in the room would have thought of it," Lepore said.

The luncheon guests were Lewis L. Strauss, former head of the Atomic Energy Commission who was first secretary of Hoover's Belgian relief project, and Mrs. Strauss; and Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Milbank. Milbank is a New York businessman.

At the family dinner will be sons Allan and Herbert Jr., a former undersecretary of state; and their wives, and Allan's daughter, Lou Henry Hoover, a namesake of the former president's late wife.

Allan lives in Greenwich, Conn.; Herbert Jr. in Pasadena, Calif.

Altogether, Hoover has six grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Four Fountain youths were injured, one critically, in a one-car accident Sunday night, the State Patrol reported. The accident happened a mile north of the Fountain Interchange on the freeway.

In critical condition this morning at St. Francis Hospital was Robert L. Jacques, 15, who suffered back fractures, internal injuries, cuts and a possible fractured skull. Another passenger, Rinaldo Vialpando, 16, was in fair condition with a broken leg and suffering from shock.

The driver of the car, Joe L. Martinez, 16, suffered shock and contusions and was treated and released from St. Francis. Frank R. Lujan, 16, sustained contusions, abrasions, and shock and was also treated and released.

State Patrolman R. D. Allen said the car was southbound when the right rear wheel suspension broke, causing the vehicle to go out of control. The car skidded into the median and rolled one and three-quarter times, coming to rest on its left side.

Police said the two men argued at Williams's home before the assault. After he was released from the hospital, Williams signed a complaint against Tony Stewart, his alleged attacker.

Pope Proposes To Mediate for World Peace

spites, without specifically saying what form such aid might take.

He said in the field of world peace he felt "it specifically incumbent upon us (the Pope) not merely to devote a watchful and understanding interest, but also to entertain a more assiduous and efficacious concern."

"This will be, of course, within the limits of our ministry and so utterly divorced from purely temporal interests and strictly political forms, but it will be eager to make its contribution in educating mankind, and in fostering rational and civilized agreements for peaceful relations between nations."

"We also shall be solicitous to help by proclaiming higher human principles that should serve to temper the passions and selfishness from which armed conflicts spring."

"And we shall be ready to intervene, where an opportunity presents itself, in order to assist the contending parties to find honorable and fraternal solutions for their disputes."

In the chapter on awareness, Pope Paul said "It is a duty today for the Church to deepen the awareness that she must have of herself, of the treasure of truth of which she is heir and custodian and of her mission in the world."

He said the Church must "reflect on herself" because of the scientific, technical, social, philosophical, and currents in the world.

"Men committed to the Church are greatly influenced by the climate of the world; so much so that a danger bordering almost on vertiginous confusion and bewilderment can shake the Church's very foundations and lead men to embrace most bizarre ways of thinking."

The chapter on reform noted that it was up to the Ecumenical Council to propose changes in canon law, to render the Church "spotless and youthful."

Pope Paul said the term reform should not be used only "in the sense of change, but of a stronger determination to preserve the characteristic features which Christ has impressed on the Church."

But he added: "Let us not deceive ourselves into thinking that the edifice of the Church should be reduced to its early minimal proportions as if they alone were true and good."

It was in the third chapter, on dialogue, that the Pope discussed communism, atheism, Christian unity and the possibility of a joint defense of common ideals with non-Christians.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Highlights of "Ecclesiam Suam," the first encyclical of Pope Paul VI:

On world peace — "We shall be ready to intervene, where an opportunity presents itself, in order to assist the contending parties to find honorable and fraternal solutions for their disputes."

On Roman Catholic discussions with non-Christian religions — "We desire to join with them in promoting and defending common ideals of religious liberty, human brotherhood, good culture, social welfare and civil order. We are ready to enter into discussion on these common ideals."

On atheism and communism — "This is the most serious problem of our time. Various reasons compel us to condemn the ideological systems which deny God and oppress the Church, systems which are often identified with economic social and political regimes, amongst which atheistic communism is the chief."

On Christian unity — "Let us stress what we have in common rather than what divides us. But we must add that it is not in our power to compromise with the integrity of the faith."

On the concept of papal primacy — "It distresses us to see how we are regarded by many of the separated brethren as being Christian unity's stumbling block. Without the Pope the Catholic Church would no longer be Catholic."

On church reform — "In the pursuit of spiritual and moral perfection the Church cannot remain unaffected by or indifferent to the changes that take place in the world around. The form cannot concern either the essential conception of the Church or its basic structure."

On dialogue with the modern world — "The Church should enter into dialogue with the world in which it exists and labors. We do not despair that atheistic ideological systems such as communism may one day be able to enter into a more positive dialogue with the Church than the present one which we now of necessity deplore and lament."

BATTLE FLASHES
Those attacking North Viet Nam PT boats were Soviet-made. They are of the so-called Komar class, have a speed of some 40 knots, and are equipped with both torpedoes and missiles. Apparently, the boats that attacked the U.S. destroyers did not have missiles as they used only torpedoes. Russia has equipped Cuba with a sizable fleet of Komars, most of them armed with both torpedoes and missiles. The U.S. has nuclear submarines in the Pacific as part of the Seventh Fleet. Some of the nuclear-powered subs are killer subs; that is, subs designed specifically for hunting and destroying other subs.

The Seventh Fleet has the capability of destroying virtually all major North Viet Nam and Red Chinese military targets in a few days. The fleet can do that as it is now comprised; it does not need reinforcements. In the event armed retaliation against Red China becomes necessary, the first targets will be its nuclear plants and laboratories. Their location is precisely known and they are pinpointed for massive air and missile attacks. Other major targets are the Communists' highly vulnerable rail system and chief industrial centers which mostly are located near the coast. . . . Significantly, a number of B-47 strategic bombers have arrived at Okinawa, within easy striking distance of principal Chinese targets. . . . Both Red China and Russia have submarine bases in Indonesia. These bases, maintained and operated separately, were granted by President Sukarno in his policy of playing all sides to the middle — including the U.S. from whom he has received tens of millions of dollars in foreign aid.

Hod Carriers Threaten Nine County Walkout

PUEBLO (UPI)—Members of the Hod Carriers Union and local contractors in southeast Colorado meet today and Tuesday in an attempt to patch up differences and end the threat of a strike.

Fern Martinez of Pueblo, secretary-treasurer and business manager of Local 354 here, said more than 500 union members in a nine-county area would walk off their jobs Wednesday unless some settlement had been reached on the contract dispute.

Martinez estimated such a strike would idle several thousand other union tradesmen. The strike deadline originally was set for today, but was delayed for further negotiations.

The strike was sanctioned by union membership at a special meeting held last Thursday.

Albert Concioli of Pueblo, chairman of the negotiating committee for the contractors, said employers had offered a pay increase of 25 cents an hour, but that the union was holding out for 30 cents.

The laborers now get $2.54 an hour, plus a 10-cent health and welfare fund contribution by the employers. If the men walk out, several dozen contractors in the area would be affected.

Pet Turtle Advertises Phone Number

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Old Timer, a turtle, has a new telephone number.

It's painted on his back with nail polish.

Because his old phone number was out of date, it took quite a bit of doing for the people who found him recently, two miles from his home, to return him to the Richard Walker family.

That was because he had his old number, which was for a phone in Ukiah, 75 miles from here, where the Walker family lived until five months ago.

Mrs. Walker said she painted the original number on him after he wandered off and was gone three months.

Now, at the urging of the four Walker children, she has got it on the nail polish and Old Timer's phone number is up to date.

Two-Car Mishap Injures Four

A two-car accident in the Black Forest Sunday afternoon resulted in injuries to four persons and an estimated $2,800 worth of damage. The accident happened about 20 miles northeast of here on Walker Road, according to the state patrol.

The driver of one car, James R. Britt, 43, of Route 2, Box 22B, suffered bruises, abrasions and a possible broken arm. A passenger in the car, George Davis, 26, of 2903 E. Bijou St., suffered head cuts.

The driver of the other car, William M. Powell, 17, of Denver, sustained abrasions and passenger Marion S. Powell, 39, also of Denver, received bruises, head cuts and possible back injuries. All the injured were taken to Penrose Hospital for treatment.

State Patrolman Nathan Reals said the Britt car was westbound on Walker Road and the Powell car eastbound and over the center of the road when they met head-on.

Nikita Warns Turkey About Danger of War

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev urged Turkey today to halt its air attacks on Cyprus. He warned that such action could "only make the situation more acute, increase the conflict and increase the danger of war."

In a message to Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu in which he again backed the Greek Cypriots, Khrushchev said: "I hope that your many years long experience as a statesman also tells you what a responsibility the Turkish side is taking on itself while carrying out a military attack on the republic of Cyprus, a sovereign state and a member of the U.N."

Greek Cypriot President Makarios says he has appealed to the Soviets for direct aid in the crisis, but Khrushchev did not threaten intervention. The Soviets reportedly have been supplying the Greek Cypriots with some arms.

Khrushchev said Greek and Turkish Cypriots must be allowed to settle internal questions "by peaceful means and in a calm atmosphere" without foreign interference.

"The Soviet government calls upon the government of the Turkish republic to stop military operations against the republic of Cyprus," he said.

Khrushchev also sent messages to Makarios and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant urging a peaceful settlement.

Although Khrushchev backed the Greek Cypriots, there was a hint of criticism in his note to Makarios.

"The Soviet government is convinced that the cessation of bloodshed in the island and your efforts with that aim in view could be an important contribution toward the normalization of the situation," he said.

Khrushchev also called for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Cyprus. He did not say whether he meant Greek and Turkish infiltrators as well as the U.N. peace force.

In the note to U Thant, Khrushchev said: "At this moment, the U.N. must do its best to stop the bloodshed in Cyprus and thus avert the development of events dangerous to the cause of peace."

The Soviet Union and its communist ally, Czechoslovakia, abstained in the Security Council's 9-0 vote in favor of a U.S.-British resolution calling for an end to hostilities on Cyprus.

The Moscow press was much blunter in its condemnation of the Turkish attacks. Pravda described the raids as "unconcealed aggression."

The Soviet news agency Tass said "Turkish pirate actions jeopardize the peace in the eastern Mediterranean."

D. and B. School Library Receives Book From AAUW

Mrs. Robert L. Quimby, president of the Colorado Springs Branch of American Association of University Women, has announced the recent selection of a book and its placement in the library of the Colorado School of the Deaf and Blind in honor of Mrs. J. Mason Anderson, who died Feb. 1.

Mrs. Evelyn Bond Anderson had been Supervising Teacher in the Lower School, Deaf Department, since 1959, and had taught there 1934-1943 and had returned here in 1953, where she continued until her death. Mrs. Anderson was a graduate of the University of North Dakota and had received her special training to teach the deaf at the Lexington School for the Deaf in New York City. She did graduate work at the University of Colorado and Columbia University. Mrs. Anderson's innate love for children, plus her understanding of the deaf child's problems, along with her tact and friendly relationship with the students and her co-workers endeared her to all who knew her. She will be missed from their midst.

This appeared in the school paper "The Colorado Index," Feb. 1964.

The book selected with the assistance of Mrs. Armin Turechek is "Education for the Slow Learner" by G. Orville Johnson, published by Prentice Hall, Inc.

AAUW traditionally places a library book in Memoriam for deceased members, endeavoring to select material dealing with the interests of that person whom they honor.

Traffic Problem Solution Predicted—in 40 Years

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK
NEW YORK (AP) — Take heart, weary commuters! If you can hold your bones together, you may see such things as these within the next 40 years:

1. High speed trains that will allow you to work in the city and live in the wide open spaces — as far as 80 miles from town.
2. Automated roads where you leave most of the driving to electronic controls.
3. Underground, moving sidewalks that will speed you about the city.
4. Quiet buses propelled by electricity or other means that would abolish exhaust fumes.

You also might find a meter in your car to register charges for highway and street use, but it's unlikely that you would consider this a blessing.

All of these are ideas being discussed by transportation experts seeking to relieve New York City's commuter headache.

With one-half million commuters squeezing into the city each day, New York probably has the greatest commuter problem in the world.

Although planners and engineers are willing to discuss the future, most don't want their names used in projections as distant as 40 years.

The big question is whether major expansion will be in the direction of highway or rail travel.

Those advocating rails argue that virtually all highway improvements simply attract more vehicles and thus create more congestion.

A modern rail network for the New York area, they contend, could handle enormous traffic. Some envision trains hitting up to 100 miles an hour.

Firms to Spend $4.5 Million on Overseas Plants

U. S. industrial firms plan to raise their overseas capital spending by 14 per cent this year, bringing their total outside the continental U. S. to $4.5 billion in 1964, compared to $3.9 billion last year.

These companies now plan to top this amount by three per cent—raising the total to $4.6 billion—in 1965, and to spend nearly as much in 1966.

These are the major findings of the Overseas Operations of U. S. Industrial Companies, 1964-66, compiled by the Economics Department of McGraw-Hill Publications, a division of McGraw-Hill, Inc.

The manufacturing segment of U. S. industry plans to spend $2.6 billion this year, 21 per cent more than in 1963. Plans for 1965 overseas spending call for an increase of six per cent, or $2.8 billion. And plans for 1966 spending already are just this year's level.

The petroleum industry now plans to spend $1.9 billion this year, six per cent more than last year. The petroleum industry expects to spend nearly as much next year and plans to raise the amount to nearly two billion dollars in 1966.

Among manufacturers, the auto and transportation equipment industry is spending the largest amount overseas this year. Its investment will amount to $648 million. A two per cent rise is indicated for next year and then a substantial drop in 1966.

All manufacturing industries except paper—which expects a drop of 10 per cent—indicate investment will increase this year. The largest percentage increase is planned by the primary metals industry with an expected gain of 41 per cent.

Only three industries expect 1965 spending to drop below this year's level—paper, food and beverages and other metalworking (fabricated metals and instruments). While most industries expect their 1966 level of capital expenditures to be down from 1965, a few already have plans to spend more in 1966 than in 1965—chemicals, paper and food and beverages.

American manufacturers will devote more than half of their total overseas investment to Canada and the Common Market combined. U. S. manufacturers spent well over half a billion dollars in the Common Market in 1963. They plan to increase the amount over the next three years, reaching a total of nearly $900 million in 1966.

This year and next, manufacturers expect to spend between 28 per cent and 29 per cent of their total overseas investment in Canada, but the share drops to 20 per cent in 1966.

Investment in Europe outside the Common Market nations will drop from 24 per cent last year to 20 per cent this year, and will drop to 18 per cent in 1966.

Latin America also is losing out as an investment area. While manufacturing firms expect to spend 15 per cent of the total overseas investment in Latin America this year, the share drops to 12 per cent in 1966.

Asia and Africa will show gains in investment from the U. S. While only 10 per cent of the total was spent in these areas in 1963, manufacturers plan to increase the proportion to 13 per cent this year and next and to 16 per cent in 1966.

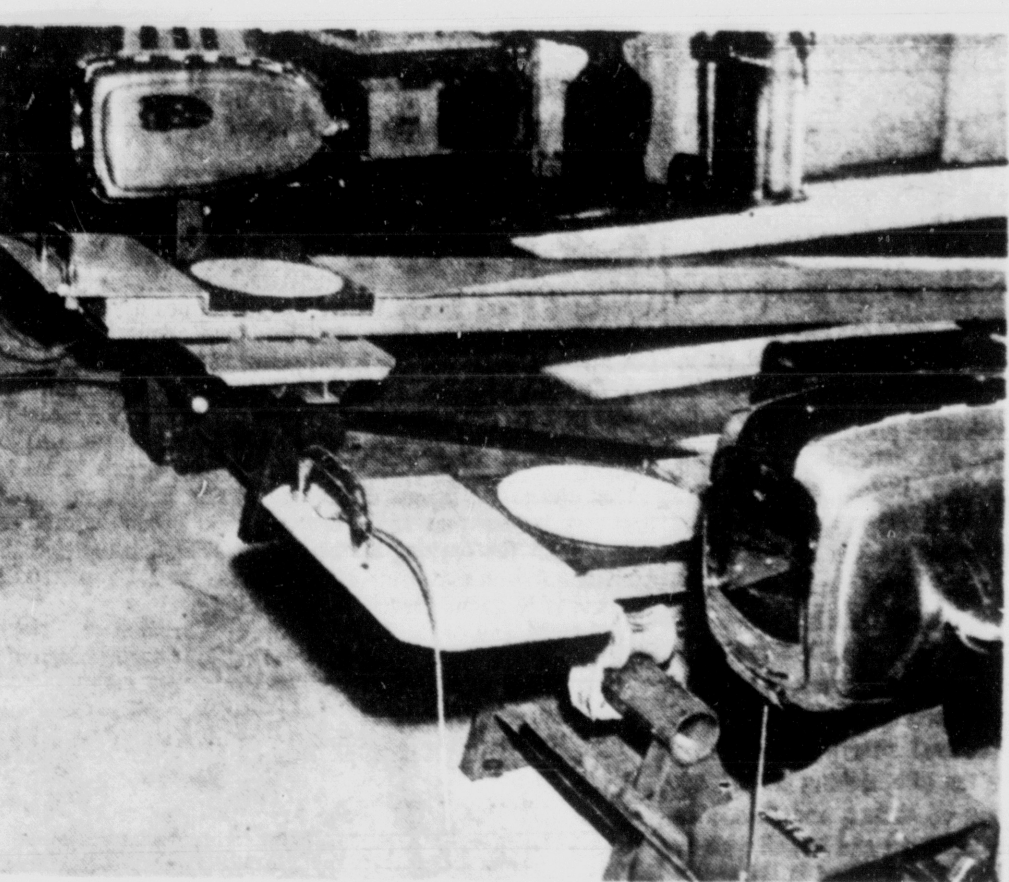

Other McGraw-Hill survey findings show:

Manufacturers plan to devote 56 per cent of their 1964 overseas investment to replacement and modernization, and 44 per cent to new capacity or expansion. (This compares with 64 per cent for modernization and 36 per cent for expansion in the U. S.)

As of December, 1963, manufacturers were operating at 88 per cent of their overseas capacity, compared with 85 per cent in the U. S. And they expect their overseas operating rate to move up to 89 per cent by the end of this year.

While 42 per cent of the answering firms indicated that profit margins are higher overseas than in the U. S., another 23 per cent indicated that overseas profit margins are about the same as in the U. S. Only 35 per cent said that overseas profit margins are lower than in the U. S.

Manufacturers anticipated a 12 per cent increase in subsidiaries' sales this year, and another 12 per cent in 1965. They expect these sales to grow another 11 per cent between 1965 and 1966. Exports from the U. S. are expected to be up seven per cent in 1964, four per cent in 1965 and another eight per cent in 1966. If realized, combined exports and subsidiaries' sales would reach $66 billion in 1966.

AFL-CIO Pressure Results In National Job Loss

By SAM CAMPBELL
Back in the wheat country, shortly before the combine had completely displaced the old fashion grain binder and threshing machine, I made five seasons as a migratory farm hand.

It was, therefore, with considerable personal interest this past week that I visited the bacoero camp in Fullerton, Calif. Specifically I wished to see how the migratory farm worker of today fares in comparison with former years.

Of course, picking citrus and harvesting of row crops calls for a different set of muscles than the handling of a pitchfork, and I can't rightly say of my own experience which is the harder work.

100 Degrees In Shade
In working small grain, you had a certain amount of stoop labor during the shocking phase. Peak day temperatures seldom were less than 100 degrees in the shade and I can remember times when they reached 114 degrees.

The working day was 13 hours. For this we were paid a flat $2.50 and also our board of three hefty farm-cooked meals. At night we would try to locate a comfortable hay stack to sleep on; a green patch of bermuda grass was next best. In case of rain, we headed for the barn.

Well, today the migratory farm worker in Orange County who quarters at the Fullerton camp pays for his food — $1.75 a day. But his bed and bedding is furnished. He sleeps in a barracks, eight bunks to a room.

The workday now is eight to nine hours. A moderately diligent worker can make $60 to $80 a week. More skillful workers can beat that considerably, so I was told.

The camp itself is a piece of engineering that the U. S. Army might well take a look at. The construction cost $432,000 back in 1951. Besides the barracks capable of housing 1260 men, there is a messhall, a recreation room and a medical facility.

In one of the three bathhouses, I counted 60 showerheads (that sure beats a horse tank or "crick") and was told the cold and hot water is mixed automatically so that the first men in from the fields don't get all the hot water.

Genuine Mexican Food
The food served at the messhall was genuine Mexican fare. You can't beat that for either taste or go-power. The mess has its own tortilla factory. I've lived in Army camps around the world, but I never saw any military kitchen or dining room that was cleaner.

Over the past century, the bracero has established an excellent reputation as a worker.

Continental Airlines Sets New Record

Continental Airlines set a new July traffic record of 124,000,000 revenue passenger miles, a 9 per cent increase from the 114,000,000 total recorded in July, 1963. Marvin L. Davis, vice president-sales, reported today.

To help meet August traffic demand, which is expected to be the heaviest for any month in the company's history, Continental has expanded Golden Jet schedules over the company's Los Angeles-Chicago and Los Angeles-Houston routes, Davis said.

Orioles Startle Yankees In First Crucial Series

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was the right time and the right place, but someone threw away the script.

And the mouse almost swallowed the cat.

The New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles wound up a key, four-game series Sunday at Yankee Stadium before the season's biggest crowd — 58,102. It was the first of several August sets in which the Yankees usually chop down their American League pennant rivals.

When Sunday's doubleheader had ended, however, Baltimore was running a high flag fever while New York was running a tired third in the leagues stretch race.

The Orioles' 4-2 victory in the finale kept them two games in front of the Yankees — the Chicago White Sox are second, 1½ games out — and the Yanks needed a clutch pitching effort by Al Downing in their 2½ first game decision to avert a Baltimore series sweep. The Orioles won 2-0 Friday night and 6-5 Saturday.

"I'm satisfied with three out of four from them any time," Manager Hank Bauer said after the twin bill, "especially in their backyard."

The Yankees get another shot at the Orioles next weekend at Baltimore but, at present, the defending AL champions are in their worst position at this stage of the race since 1959, when the White Sox took the flag. The Yankees have four games with Chicago coming up while the Orioles play host to Boston, with a good opportunity to increase their lead.

The White Sox divided a doubleheader with the Red Sox, losing the opener 6-3 and copping the second game 4-1. The Detroit Tigers ran their longest winning streak of the campaign to seven with a 4-2, 5-2 sweep of Kansas City but Cleveland's victory string ended at five when Minnesota beat the Indians 3-1 after a 7-0 first-game loss.

Washington rallied for five runs in the ninth inning and edged the Los Angeles Angels 6-5 in the league's only single game.

The Orioles beat the Yankees at their own game — power, defense, opportunism — through-out the series.

Boog Powell's 29th home run, a two-run wallop into the right centerfield bleachers, provided the Orioles' second game margin Sunday. He also doubled in the second inning and scored the first run on Sam Bowers' double. Luis Aparicio singled with two out in the third, stole his 43rd base and came home on a single by Norm Siebern before Powell unloaded.

The New York runs came on homers by John Blanchard and Roger Maris off Robin Roberts, 9-5, who worked the first six innings.

Bowens hit .353 in the series and won Saturday's game with a 10th inning homer. Jerry Adair homered Friday night as New York's Jim Bouton lost a pitchers' duel to Steve Harber and Harvey Haddix.

Downing, 9-4, allowed only four hits and struck out nine in the opener. He stranded Earl Robinson after a lead-off triple in the fifth, getting the last two outs on strikes, and fanned Jackie Brandt and Powell with the tying run on third in the eighth.

Sixth inning singles by Bobby Richardson and Elston Howard drove in the Yankee runs.

Gary Peters fired a six-hitter, boosting his record to 13-6, in the White Sox' second game victory and Pete Ward drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly.

Ed Bressoud's solo homer and Dick Stuart's two-run shot backed Bill Monbouquette, 8-9, in the opener as Boston beat the White Sox a Comiskey Park for the first time in eight tries.

RMKC to Offer Twin Quin At Local Oval This Season

Al Binns, general manager of the Colorado Springs Rocky Mountain Kennel Club, has announced that the famous Twin Quin, the multi-wagering combination that has been having fantastic pay-offs, will be offered at RMKC for the first time this season when the track opens on Saturday, Aug. 22.

This is the 16th season for RMKC, located north of downtown Colorado Springs on the highway towards Denver. The Daily Double is well known to RMKC patrons and has been throughout the track's entire history.

Tracks in many parts of the country have been instituting the Twin-Quin into their racing programs for sometime and it has proven very popular with their patrons. RMKC has received approval of the State Racing Commission to present the Twin-Quin this season and also to present an 11 race card each night. In previous seasons only 10 races have been run on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Players of the Twin-Quin purchase $2 tickets on the first half of the Twin-Quin at sometime during the evening after the sixth race and before the 10th race. Those holding tickets for the winning combination in the first half of the Twin-Quin may then exchange them for the combination of their choice in the last half of the Twin-Quin, or the 11th race.

The Twin-Quin is a separate wagering pool from all other pools and has no relationship to any other forms of wagering. Many Twin-Quin pools have reached fantastic totals, and at an eastern track some weeks ago there was one winning ticket with an $87,000 pay-off.

The 10-day official schooling period for greyhounds that will race at RMKC this season gets underway at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday night. There is no admission charge and minors may attend. After the official racing season opens on Saturday, Aug. 22, no minors will be admitted within the RMKC track.

Football Exhibitions Offer Some Surprises

Associated Press Sports Writer
The San Francisco 49ers, the Los Angeles Rams and the Kansas City Chiefs, the have-not teams of 1963, may become the haves of 1964 in professional football.

That appears to be one of the first conclusions that could be drawn from the opening of the exhibition season that drew 282,441 fans to 10 games, seven Saturday night and three Sunday afternoon. The six National League games drew 219,116 and the four American League games 63,325.

The 49ers, who had their worst season in 1963, scored an easy 26-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns before 27,404 Sunday at San Francisco. Quarterback John Brodie, injured most of last season, completed 15 of 25 passes for 188 yards and one touchdown.

Jack Christiansen, starting his first full year as coach of the 49ers, declared "We're way ahead of last year and we're going to give a lot of teams a lot of trouble."

Roman Gabriel, who is expected to lead the Rams back to title contention in the NFL, sparked the Rams to a 17-6 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys before 57,450 at Los Angeles. He completed 16 of 26 passes for 159 and set up both Ram touchdowns.

Kansas City, the 1963 flop of the year in the AFL after winning the championship in 1962, whipped the Oakland Raiders 21-14 before 11,118 at Oakland. The passing of Len Dawson and Eddie Wilson sparked the Chiefs to an early lead and their strong defense thwarted a late Oakland threat.

"We're hungry again," said Kansas City Coach Hank Stram. The largest crowd, an estimated 65,000, turned out at New Orleans where the St. Louis Cardinals upset the Green Bay Packers 20-7. Star back Paul Hornung, back in action after a year's suspension for betting on games, carried the ball only five times for Green Bay. He gained a total of 29 yards, his best effort a 16-yard run.

The Minnesota Vikings whipped the New York Giants 21-7 before 31,581 at Minneapolis and the Detroit Lions nipped the Washington Redskins 23-27 before 18,781 at Charlotte. A 16-yard pass from Milt Plum to Terry Barr tied the score with nine seconds left and Wayne Walker converted from placement for the winning Detroit point.

In other games the Baltimore Colts whipped the Philadelphia Eagles 28-17 before 18,500 at Hershey, Pa.; the San Diego Chargers downed the Denver Broncos 34-20 before 26,293 at San Diego; the Houston Oilers walloped the Boston Patriots 28-7 before 20,087 at Newton, Mass., and the Buffalo Bills clouted the New York Jets 26-13 before 5,827 at Tampa, Fla.

Pete Gogolak booted a 57-yard field goal for Buffalo and Clarence Childs ran back a Minnesota kickoff for 108 yards for the only Giant touch down. Both exceeded the listed records in the NFL and AFL, but they will not go into the record books because they were made in exhibition games.

The NFL record for the longest TD kickoff return is held by Al Carmichael of Green Bay at 106 yards in 1956. The longest field goal record in the NFL is held by Bert Rechichar of Baltimore at 56 yards in 1953. The AFL records are 104 yards by Ken Hall of Houston in 1960 and 55 yards by George Blanda of Houston in 1961.

Ring Champ Jack Dempsey Honored by Footprinters

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Nearly 300 members of the International Footprint Assn. and their guests were on hand Sunday night at the new Dublin House to pay honor to Jack Dempsey, who was named "Colorado's Greatest All-Time Athlete" by the local I. B. (Dad) Bruce chapter of the organization.

Dempsey, of course, could not be present because of ill health, but the large turnout was a tribute to him in that everyone at the banquet knew the former World Heavyweight boxing champion would not attend. Accepting the four-foot trophy for Dempsey was his friend and boxing authority, Eddie Eagan, of New York City. Eagan, like Dempsey, is from Colorado, having spent his childhood on the west side of Denver before going on to be a scholar at Yale, Harvard and Oxford in England, and later capturing Olympic gold medals in both boxing and four-man bobsled. Giving principal talks and introductions besides Eagan were Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, congressman from southern Colorado, and Joe (Awful) Coffee, one of the pioneers of the ring in this state and a long-time advocate of the sport.

Eagan, now chairman of the President's People-to-People Committee which promotes sporting events of all types between nations for better understanding through this mutual "language," touched lightly on his experiences with Dempsey when the "Manassa Mauler" was on his way up through the professional fight game.

Eagan also spoke of the lasting friendship between Dempsey and the man who finally took his title, Gene Tunney, and the way both are working now with his People-to-People committee.

All expressed their regrets that Dempsey couldn't attend the banquet. The great fighter was stricken with bronchitis which caused his heart to enlarge because of added pressure.

Abe Marylander, who headed the Footprinters' selection committee for this award, stated that the choice was not an easy one because of the other fine athletes who have come from Colorado. However, he said everyone was sure this was the right choice.

"One of the main reasons we picked Dempsey over other great athletes like Dutch Clark and 'Whizzer' White (both football players) is that after 40 years out of the ring Dempsey is still an idol and hero to people throughout the world. This is a distinction few others can claim," Marylander said.

Chenoweth called for more emphasis on fighting juvenile delinquency throughout the country and said he would propose more federal help along this line from congress. He also said that since boxing "is in such a sad state right now, I would recommend someone like Eddie Eagan, here, to be appointed as a national boxing commissioner."

"Only someone like our good friend Eddie Eagan could bring boxing back to what it used to be," Coffee said later in seconding the nomination of the featured speaker as a boxing czar.

Coffee, however, charged that congressmen like Chenoweth should "try to get more help for the fight against juvenile delinquency. Instead of sending billions to countries all over the world, why can't we spend some of this money to build gyms right here in this country so that kids can get off the streets and exercise the right way?" "What we need is more fighters in this country," Coffee said. "And I don't mean with knives and guns. A kid who learns to use his own fists to defend himself will also fight for the kind of country he loves."

Greeley Wins Legion Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Greeley repeated Sunday as Colorado's Class A American Legion junior baseball champion, blanking Denver 4-0 at Pueblo.

The victory sends Greeley to the Region Eight playoffs at Mesa, Ariz., starting Aug. 16 with that champion advancing to the national finals at Little Rock, Ark.

In Aurora, Durango and Aurora Hinkley won Class B semifinals games Sunday and meet for a best-of-three series at Aurora Central High next Saturday and Sunday.

Durango defeated Pueblo 7-3 and Aurora Hinkley dropped Greeley 5-4. Two pitchers scattered seven Denver hits in the title game at Pueblo. Duane Koonce held Denver for five innings but was replaced by Jack Steele after giving a leadoff single in the sixth. Steele checked Denver with two hits the rest of the way.

Frederick Wins Hill Climb Race

TENSLEEP, Wyo. (AP) — Chuck Fredrick of Golden, Colo. guided his modified 1960 Corvette over the Tensleep Canyon Hill Climb in record time Sunday.

Coffee, however, charged that congressmen like Chenoweth should "try to get more help for the fight against juvenile delinquency. Instead of sending billions to countries all over the world, why can't we spend some of this money to build gyms right here in this country so that kids can get off the streets and exercise the right way?" "What we need is more fighters in this country," Coffee said. "And I don't mean with knives and guns. A kid who learns to use his own fists to defend himself will also fight for the kind of country he loves."

Frederick's time of 4:35.6 lowered the record he had set in the first climb three years ago. He competed in the Class A event for the most powerful cars. A Montana driver, Gene Mitchell of Billings, won the Class B competition in 4:49.88 in another Corvette.

The other winners included Ray Arthon, Class C, 5:11.6; Richard Frazer, Class D, 5:11.8; and Andy Forsburg, Class E, 5:30.3.

The old U.S. 16 route in Tensleep Canyon, 10 miles from town, was used by 30 drivers competing from nine states and Canada.

Bunning Blanks Mets Mays' Bat Screaming As Giants Keep Pace

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last Wednesday, Willie Mays stood in the darkened runway leading to the visitors' dugout at Shea Stadium and in a voice deepened by a heavy chest cold explained why he was going to play.

In the four days since he went to bat verbally for San Francisco Manager Al Dark, Mays has maintained complete silence about the incident.

But his bat's been screaming. Mays personally lifted the Giants to two weekend victories, tripling home the only run in Saturday's 1-0 victory over Cincinnati, then collecting four hits for the first time this season as the Giants whipped the Reds 7-5 Sunday.

Not since May when he was hitting above the .400 mark has the $100,000-a-year outfielder put on such an outstanding one-man show as he did Sunday slamming his 32nd homer, a double and two singles, driving in three runs, scoring two and stealing two bases.

Mays, bothered by a heavy cold, was not scheduled to play against the Mets last Wednesday. But with Dark under fire and his job threatened, Mays asked to be inserted in the lineup.

"I shouldn't be playing," he said, "but I've got to help that man."

That was the last he said on the subject. Since then, in four games, he's hit three homers, driven in six runs and collected eight hits in 17 at-bats.

Mays' latest efforts kept the Giants 2½ games behind the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies, who whipped New York 6-0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching and a two-run homer by former Met Frank Thomas.

In other games, Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer gave Pittsburgh a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs, Denny Lemaster pitched a four-hitter as Milwaukee defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2 and Ray Sadecki posted his 13th victory in St. Louis' 8-2 triumph over Houston.

Mays triggered a four-run outburst in the first inning when he homered after Duke Snider opened with a walk. Willie McCovey followed with his 16th homer and another run scored on a walk. Tom Haller's single and a double by Hal Lanier.

Mays singled in the fourth, stole second and scored on a double by McCovey. He singled home a run in the sixth, then finished his day by doubling and stealing third in the ninth.

Despite Mays' one-man show, the Giants still needed some brilliant relief work by Billy O'Dell, who came on in the fourth and allowed only two hits over the final 5½ innings, striking out the last four men he faced.

It all prompted this comment from Dark:

"We'll be in the World Series this fall if things break right for us."

Things also continued to break right for the Phillies as Thomas, acquired Friday from the Mets, hit a two-run homer in the fourth and rookie Alex Johnson, recalled when Danny Cater was injured, hit his first homer in the eighth, a two-run, pinch-hit shot.

That was more than enough for Bunning, who brought his record to 12-4 with another strong effort. Bunning did not allow a hit until Joe Christopher beat out a bunt with two out in the fifth. He had retired 45 Mets in succession until then, including 27 in his June 21 perfect game.

Pagliaroni's homer and the combined four-hit pitching of Don Schwall and Al McBean got the job done for the Pirates. Schwall allowed only three hits before leaving in the ninth. Pagliaroni's homer tagged Bob Buhl, 12-9, with the loss.

Lemaster, 12-7, breezed after the Braves jumped on Don Drysdale, 13-11, for four runs in the fourth inning. The key hit in the uprising was a two-run double by Joe Torre, who later scored on an error by Nate Oliver. Lemaster ended Tommy Davis' hitting streak at 20 games.

Sadecki checked the Colts on seven hits while the Cardinals lashed 15, including three each by Dick Groat and Tom McCarver. The Cardinals clinched it with three unearned runs in the fourth after an error by Walt Bond opened the gates.

Pueblo Derby To Highlight Hornung Says He's Back in NFL to Stay Track Slate

PUEBLO — Running of the annual Pueblo Derby over the 709-yard Derby Course, longest route in use at the track, will highlight this week's racing program at Pueblo Greyhound Park as the 1964 racing meet nears its end.

The derby field will be selected in two elimination races over the same distance on Tuesday and Wednesday night. This distance is used only three times annually — for the derby eliminations and the derby itself.

Among greyhounds Racing Secretary Fred Griffin is considering for the marathon test are Omer L. Rawlings' Spot Track, winner of the middle distance championship over the 693-yard Wright Course earlier in the year; Shamrock Kennel's Sassi Passie; and Robert Thorne's Fighting Mirage, holder of the track record for the Wright Course.

Although this is the final full week of racing, the season will continue into next week, ending on Aug. 19.

Baseball Owners to Begin Process Of Choosing Replacement for Frick

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The baseball brass will begin the long process of picking a commissioner to succeed Ford Frick when the clubowners meet Monday and Tuesday for their annual summer meetings.

The executive council, including Commissioner Frick, the two league presidents and one owner from each league, is due to set up the procedure to be followed in screening candidates.

Frick, 69, has notified the owners he will retire at the end of his term, Sept. 20, 1965.

There is little or no possibility that a new commissioner will be named at this time. Each league probably will set up committees to discuss the matter, with orders to report back to the December meetings.

Among those mentioned prominently in speculation about the job are Joe Cronin, president of the American League; Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., and Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, who was a leading candidate when Frick was elected in 1951, is 68 and too old to start a seven-year term.

After the executive council meets, the National and American Leagues will convene separately Monday afternoon. They will meet in a joint session Tuesday morning.

Included on the agenda are requests from the players for no night games on getaway days and no mid-season exhibition games involving night travel.

A suggestion for a free-agent draft, similar to the one conducted by professional football, will be considered. However, it is expected the owners will defer any action for another year to give the current first year rule another try.

"Clubs now are forced to keep high priced bonus kids on their rosters or risk losing them for the $8,000 waiver price," Giles and Cronin said there was nothing on their agendas about shifting any franchises.

Atlanta is supposed to be in line for a franchise, reportedly Milwaukee, next year.

The owners of the Los Angeles Angels, who signed a rental contract Saturday for a new stadium at Anaheim, Calif., in 1966, may ask formal approval for a transfer, but Cronin said he did not expect any action at this time.

A television committee, headed by John Fetzer of the Detroit Tigers, will deliver a report on a proposed nationally televised Monday night game for 1965.

The National League will adopt a new pension scale for umpires that will be a compromise between the $300 a year for each year of service, asked by the umpires, and the $200 now paid. Umpires may retire at 55.

Lakewood Driver Wins Race at Independence

Chandler beat Jack Hinkle, the favorite from Wichita.

Leonard Canda of Boulder, Colo., was first over-all in the opening race, averaging 80.44 miles an hour. Chandler averaged 85.4 m.p.h.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, who was a leading candidate when Frick was elected in 1951, is 68 and too old to start a seven-year term.

After the executive council meets, the National and American Leagues will convene separately Monday afternoon. They will meet in a joint session Tuesday morning.

Included on the agenda are requests from the players for no night games on getaway days and no mid-season exhibition games involving night travel.

A suggestion for a free-agent draft, similar to the one conducted by professional football, will be considered. However, it is expected the owners will defer any action for another year to give the current first year rule another try.

"Clubs now are forced to keep high priced bonus kids on their rosters or risk losing them for the $8,000 waiver price," Giles and Cronin said there was nothing on their agendas about shifting any franchises.

Atlanta is supposed to be in line for a franchise, reportedly Milwaukee, next year.

The owners of the Los Angeles Angels, who signed a rental contract Saturday for a new stadium at Anaheim, Calif., in 1966, may ask formal approval for a transfer, but Cronin said he did not expect any action at this time.

A television committee, headed by John Fetzer of the Detroit Tigers, will deliver a report on a proposed nationally televised Monday night game for 1965.

The National League will adopt a new pension scale for umpires that will be a compromise between the $300 a year for each year of service, asked by the umpires, and the $200 now paid. Umpires may retire at 55.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Individuality

Were we to attempt to compound a general cosmology we would have to begin with individual man. Here is the great mystery. What is man? What may he become?

Biologists have made a fine beginning in their effort to understand the physical properties of man. Here, they can and do confine themselves in part to the nature of the individual. Biochemists can do the same thing. Roger Williams, a profound scholar from the University of Texas, has demonstrated beyond reasonable dispute that human individuality is a fact.

No two human beings are identical. Universal individuality is the law. But as we attempt to probe the nature of man in its aspects which avoid the physical, the humanities have found themselves baffled. And to come up with anything at all, the various branches of humanistic inquiry have largely limited themselves to the study of men in groups.

History, which answers certain questions about man, namely the "who" and the "when" and, to some degree, the "where," deals with men in small and large groups. History is important for its ability to accomplish this chore.

But where is the history of individual man? Man is divided into national or racial or political or ethnic groups. Or, in more general approach, man is viewed as a collective sing. We talk of "man" when we mean "all of men."

We cannot predict individual human action. We only discover, through history's portals, that individual men become indistinct and blurred when put into too close a focus. So, we content ourselves with a recitation of the events that have been produced by men acting together. Man, by himself, remains a mystery.

But then we turn to economics. This is a very new science. Its purpose is to explore and to answer the "how." How do men live? But again the approach deals with groups of men. We can even approximate prediction here. But never of the individual. We understand that economics is the study of things which have value, and which are valued largely because of their scarcity. But when we make this study, we study group effects and group causes.

Psychology, another branch of the humanities, deals with the "why" of man. Here, the approach to the individual comes even closer. Yet the subject remains clouded. Psychology, unless great care is taken, becomes only a science of "mass man." Once more we cannot predict the actions of one person.

We come close only when we presume that each man must fit into a group of some sort and then, predicting the actions of the group we can assay the way the man OUGHT to act. If he really is a member of that group.

We can take literature both in foreign languages and in our own. Here is the record of what men have thought and said. And here is where we undoubtedly make the first discovery that all our discoveries in other areas have somehow fallen short of the goal. Literature is individualism expressed. But who can predict a master work? Who can tell us that the scholar, endowed by nature with a magnificent mind, will invariably turn out something of lasting worth and beauty? Who can tell us that the dullard, somehow overlooked when nature was in bestowing mood, may not yet surprise us in the release of a splendid set of thoughts wholly unexpected?

Individual man is the great mystery, the great enigma. What magnificence may yet be locked up in his dreams, his hopes, his loves, his aspirations? But this is true: If we downgrade man's individuality by slavish adoration of study of group man, we are still skirting the central theme.

What becomes important as man's individual nature is realized, is that no force or violence be created or imposed to rob us of this greatest of all treasures.

If men are free to join the

Don't Shove, Ma'am

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Among the many aspects of political action to which I object, aside from the principles involved in political action, is the situation where the political actionist shoves when he or she would be wise to let well enough alone. Just recently one representative of an organization attempted to give me a gentle shove after I mentioned his organization to a not unkindly manner. Now, a female political actionist tells me that if I mean what I say I MUST, perforce, support Senator Goldwater.

Ma'am, you just about force me to state my case. My personal boycott of politicians is a total condition and it applies to all politicians. I will not voluntarily associate with a politician on any basis, be it personal, social or political. I will not comment in a kindly vein about politicians because I have no kindly thoughts about any politician.

Now, you say I MUST support Mr. Goldwater if I believe in freedom and I say bluntly, you do not understand the meaning of the word when you attempt to tell me that I MUST support anybody, sanction the right of anybody to rule over me or even ostensibly represent me.

The chances are excellent that I will not mention any politician by name between now and next November. My concern is with the fine people who understand the responsibility and respectability of the freedom philosophy and do what they can to avoid doing business with government on a voluntary basis, seeking neither doles nor special privileges which may only be granted at the expense of others.

On the other hand, keep shoving, Ma'am, and I will continue to resist in the same manner I now resist. Psychologically, it's a mistake to try to tell me what I MUST do if I believe in my right to stand on my own two feet because my belief in this right is strong and vibrant and I do the very best I can to GOVERN MYSELF accordingly.

You can depend upon it that I am not a socialist; I am not a slave to expediency. If I ever back away from this you will not know about it because I will no longer be writing this column. I will be out to get what I can without regard for principle, and this means I will sell out to the highest bidder; but if I ever do, I will not also become a sniveling hypocrite attempting to rationalize my actions. Of course, this will never happen because of a shove from you. Ma'am, it will occur only if my contempt for other human beings reaches the same level which motivates the actions of politicians, an unlikely situation.

As a matter of absolute fact, Ma'am, the method I am using in trying to communicate with you proves I have more respect for your intelligence than you may ever expect from a politician. Not for an instant do I offer something for nothing, or something at the expense of other human beings.

You've read about the eastern kingbirds and I'm sure you were delighted with the performance of the western and southern kingbirds who supported your candidate. Personally, I am not interested in kingbirds of any type or kings or the cohorts of kings or politicians.

You say I MUST support majority rule if I believe in freedom. The word freedom takes a mighty beating as it emerges from the mouths of tyrants and all who would impose their will upon mine.

Among the things you do not understand, Ma'am, are: the fact that if your candidate is elected and becomes the most virtuous politician in the universe, I will not sanction mob rule or the right of the majority to select a ruler or representative to steal from me and decide how I must live MY LIFE, and my refusal to sanction the system generally I can hear you saying, but what if Mr. Goldwater will provide you with exactly the kind of government you want? This is impossible because no candidate can provide me with the opportunity to be self-governing.

So I prefer not to waste any of this space on politicians. As I have mentioned a time or two in the past, my interest lies with respectable human beings who believe they have a right to stand on their own two feet in freedom. May their numbers increase, even in this election year.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

which are neither necessary nor helpful to business.

We hope it will take a little more time to actually study business management. Perhaps it could upgrade its own personal code by adhering more strictly to the statement we quoted at the beginning.

The whole code here is filled with ambiguity and generalizations which tend to turn the BBB into an authorized vetoer of individual business decisions of any private school. It uses such words as "qualified instructor" (qualified by whom?), "acceptable program" (acceptable to whom?), "satisfactory completion" (to whose satisfaction?).

Among specific prohibitions is one that bans the use of classified advertising to obtain students. (Why, if the ad is honest and correctly worded?) That no high school student may be contacted without the knowledge of the principal or counselor of the high school. Why? It is assumed that the government school, which is only a school after all, is somehow become the guardian of the student? What if the parents of the student want him to be contacted by a private school representative because they are tired of the government school curriculum? Are parents forbidden to contact private schools?

We're all in favor of having private industry and professional people set up their own standards and codes. But the Denver BBB gives increasing evidence that it is not as much interested in business practices as it is in becoming a virtual arm of government in setting up rather inept and hampering codes of business. We find a few specific objections in other codes offered by the Denver BBB. In matters affecting private employment services, the code abjures in this fashion: "Be sure that the employment offered will not be hazardous to public health or life." What of the dirty and dangerous jobs that must be done and to which all manner of risk attaches? Are they to remain unfilled?

Also, the employment agency is cautioned about responding in any way to ads run in papers by employers who are seeking employees. Such response is authorized only when the employment agency believes it has a qualified party for a job that is specifically spelled out in the employer's ad. But what of the possibility that an employment agency may, from long experience, know exactly the kind of help wanted even though the employer doesn't include the specific information?

One of the most objectionable codes offered by the Denver BBB is its newly revised (May, 1964) set of ethics for private schools. This particular set of rules provides that a school has to be in business for a full year before it can join the BBB. Also, the school is required to furnish records of all kinds to the BBB. The idea of confidential information getting out of the hands of a given school is wholly contrary to the concept of competitive business practice.

2. On making estimates: "Give estimates in advance and perform only authorized repairs." This presumes that an estimate made at the outset, will be the final word. Many times, until actual repair is undertaken, the full scope of the difficulty may not be discovered. This provision will tend to cause firms to make large estimates covering all kinds of possible problems that may not exist, in fact. It will force repairs that are neither needed nor wanted.

3. On free service or installation: "There shall be no wording or device used to give the impression that service and/or installation will be given without cost." But what if a highly competitive firm wishes to provide such a service and to absorb the cost in an effort to attract and keep customers? This will reduce the area of competition.

4. On gifts and premiums: "Offers of gifts or premiums to retail trade to induce patronage shall not be used." This is an effort to censor perfectly legitimate business activities. While we believe that newspaper advertising is by far the most effective way of promoting any business activity, we certainly cannot approve of some kind of control that prevents the use of other advertising methods

Bill for Criminal Defense Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent to the White House a bill to assure attorney and investigative help to persons charged with crimes but without money to defend themselves.

Under the plan indigent defendants would be represented by private attorneys, counsel furnished by legal aid societies or other local defender organizations.

The bill would apply only to federal cases. Money to pay lawyers, investigators and any other needed expert assistance would be drawn from the Treasury by the courts.

Fontaine Fox, Noted American Cartoonist, Dies

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Cartoonist Fontaine Fox, the Toonerville Trolley conductor, is dead.

Fox's Toonerville Trolley cartoons delighted American newspaper readers for 35 years.

He died in a Greenwich hospital Sunday at the age of 80.

It is said that Fox earned more than $2 million from his drawings of Toonerville's rickety trolley and rollicking folks. They appeared from 1929 to 1955 in as many as 200 newspapers.

One of his characters, Mickey (himself) McGuire, was so famous that a child actor, Joe Yule Jr., adopted the name.

When Fox proved in court that he owned a copyright on the character, young Yule took another name — Mickey Rooney.

The fictitious town of Toonerville was a combination of Louisville, Ky., Fox's hometown, and Pelham Manor, N.Y., where he once visited a friend.

Fox had lampooned a rickety Louisville trolley in early cartoons for the Louisville Herald.

When he visited Pelham Manor, a suburb of New York City, he told a trolley motorman the name of the friend he was going to see. The motorman stopped the trolley, walked up a hill, and pointed out the friend's house to Fox.

Thus the cartoonist hit upon the idea of the Toonerville Trolley — ramshackle and late, but folksy.

It became the symbol of broken-down transportation everywhere, and Americans loved it. When Pelham Manor's own trolley was replaced by a bus in 1937, a thousand people turned out to watch its last run.

Fox peopled Toonerville mostly with caricatures of his family and boyhood friends. The terrible tempered Mr. Bang was his father; powerful Katrinka, a mixture of two family cooks, the Little Scorpions his boyhood gang.

Then there was Aunt Eppie Hogg, the fattest woman in three counties; Whiskey Bill Wortle, Suitcase Simpson, the Toonerville cop, and the trolley's skipper.

Shortly before he drew his last panel in February, 1955, Fox had the trolley shattered in an accident, transformed into a contraption with the upper half trolley and the lower half bus.

Fox is survived by his widow, the former Edith Elizabeth Hinz, two daughters, a brother and two sisters.

The funeral will be Tuesday, with burial in Carmel, N.Y.

Another Bombing Reported in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Another bombing has erupted in Chicago. Like the scores of other bombings and burnings in recent months, this one is a puzzle to police.

The blast late Saturday night peeled the top off an auto parked on the northwest side.

Witnesses told police two men in a passing car had lobbed the bomb into an open window. The blast shattered windows in a nearby apartment building.

The owner of the auto is John Flynn, 36, a stationary engineer who told police he was sure the bombers had picked the wrong car by mistake.

Uses for salt were mentioned as far back as 4,700 years ago in a treatise on pharmacology.

'Instant Landscaping' Technique Is Developed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Buying professionally - grown container plants and shrubs makes "instant landscaping" possible and more economical for new home owners.

You'll find an abundance of good ground - cover plants, of both the flowering and foliage variety, at your florist's or garden center stores. A proper selection can ease the job of imparting color and greenery to that newly - graded front and backyard, says the Potted Plant Information Center.

For quick color, take home some geraniums, azaleas or year-round chrysanthemums in red clay pots. For permanent plantings, you can either empty the healthy root ball from the pots, or plunge your plants, clay pot and all, up to their rims.

ONE-EYED CYCLOPS—Miner torches perched on the hats of track layers in the Homestake tunnel glow like the eyes of one-eyed monsters dwelling in the depths of the ancient mountain. The track is a necessary part of the opera-

Hardrock Miners Challenge Mountain to Bore Tunnel

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a three-part series on the Homestake Water Development Project.

By DICK MOORE
Gazette Telegraph
Business Editor

John Henry, an old ballad tells us, was a steel-driving man who died with a hammer in his hand. He typifies a special breed of men who are always ready to challenge earthen obstacles blocking the path of developing continents; men like the hardrock miners of the Homestake Water Development Project who have the courage and strength to rip the entrails from a 60-million-year-old mountain.

John Henry was probably a steel-driver who helped gouge the Big Bend Tunnel through the Allegheny Mountains in the 1870's for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. According to the song, he worked himself to death competing against a steam drill which he ultimately defeated. He was buried in the tunnel and it is said the ring of his 20-pound sledge striking a hand-held drill can still be heard echoing in the tunnel shadows.

At the Homestake Tunnel, modern air hammers replace the sledge and drill; modern explosives, minus the old black powder fumes, blast granite rock cores, diesel and air-driven mucking cars haul away rock debris, but the ring of John Henry's hammer lives on in the blood of the workers.

They are a breed set apart only by time from such men as Ed Schieffelin, Nat Creed, Tom Walsh, Windfield Stratton and Haw Tabor who labored through the desert to Tombstone and Tonopah; over Chilkoot Pass to the Klondike, Fraser River and the Caribou; among the Black Hills to Deadwood Gulch; up Mosquito and Ute passes to Cripple Creek and Leadville.

Such early day men were perhaps blessed or cursed with unrest, greed-wealth and the fascination of danger trails, but their independence, heroic endeavors and courage are legacies passed on to miner-posterity and demonstrated now by workers in the Homestake Tunnel.

To attempt an understanding of hard rock miner's work, visit the tunnel site, a vital link in a water diversion program to bring 37,000 acre feet of water yearly to Colorado Springs (approximately six and one half billion gallons).

The hole now extends two and a fourth miles into the heart of 11,763-foot high Galena Mountain, located in the Continental Divide, with three and a fourth miles to completion at Homestake Reservoir.

The black eye of the tunnel mouth stares unblinkingly at gray granite cliffs, unperturbed by ice-laden winter winds, lightning smiting razor peaks, spring rains filling streams or the beauty of wild flowers on the hills. Inside its gaping expanse the temperature remains at a static 52 degrees the year around.

Inside the tunnel eye a narrow gauge rail track, dimly illuminated by a string of electric light bulbs, vanishes into distant depths. Icy ground water seeps from approximately 10-foot-high walls gurgling downhill to the tunnel mouth in a yellow mass of twinkling splashes.

At the tunnel side, a metal pipe, carrying air from a huge generating plant near the entrance to mucking cars and drilling equipment, booms intermittently with sudden vibrations that ricochet through the narrow confines like the sound of machine gun fire.

Further along the tunnel a curve blocks the entrance light. The airpipe becomes still and premonitory silence seems to creep from crumbling crevices; cracks restrained by steel braces bolted to the solid stone.

Abruptly a humming in the tracks invades the silence. A dump train approaches from deep in the tunnel bowels. A visitor afoot must hug the tunnel walls to allow room for it to pass.

The train passes. The silence is again broken; this time by a different and stranger sound that sweeps down the tunnel shaft, growing swiftly out of the flickering shadows like a cosmic wind, rumpling the strings of lights in blue haze before bursting upon the visitor in sharp air repercussions originating from a blast of explosives miles deep at the tunnel face.

Here, figures clad in oilskins and heavy boots, swarm in the blast area, battery-powered lights perched atop their helmets transforming them into one-eyed Cyclops.

The new blast fall must be loaded on waiting cars; drills brought into place; new holes punched for more explosives and terrain tested for the need of metal braces.

And so it goes for the three groups of 19 men working in eight hour shifts. Each blast and subsequent clearing mean a few more feet won in the battle against the implacable mountain; a few more yards nearer the Homestake Reservoir with its needed supply of water for the cities of Colorado Springs and Aurora.

And the steel-driving breed love the relentless battle they wage against the tough old mountain. Danger is ever present from a falling rock; an overcharge of explosives, a sudden cave in (there is an ambulance always on duty at the tunnel mouth) but the ring of John Henry's hammer sounds in their ears and they must press on.

Those who know them say they do not care to work above ground but are happy with the swiftly passing hours of their shifts and content to retire after work to their pine-shrouded trailer houses parked nearby the tunnel entrance.

The completion date of the tunnel is set for December 1965 at which time the war against one mountain will be won but the Homestake Dam construction will continue.

Ninety-Nines Visit Soaring Pilots Here

If she wears a small gold pin, two 9's, square cut, superimposed with a spinnable prop in the center, she's a Ninety-Nine. That's how the soaring pilots recognized their guests when Pikes Peak Soaring Association invited the gals to fly in for a ride in their Schweizer 2-2 sailplane.

Freda Turrill, flying a Cessna 175, from Denver, was the first 99 to arrive, followed by Pat Luther in a Comanche, Marj Blue in a Cessna 172, and Grace Longbrook in a Cessna 182. Nine Blue in a Cessna 182. Nine Ninety-Nines of the Colorado Chapter flew in and 10 came by car.

Eyrie Hagan; Trixie Schubert; Dorothy Neal, the Wagon Wheel Girl Scout executive; KOA's Weatherman Bowman and the husbands of the 99's, known as 99-ers, made a total of 50 people that Ken Kolstad, president of PPSA, served barbecue chicken lunches to. Each 99 was given an introductory flight in a sailplane.

The purpose of the 99's is to prepare youth to live intelligently in the Air Age. All over the United States, Ninety-Nines act as leaders in Wing Scouting. Many also hold Commissions in the Civil Air Patrol. Many 99's fly their own planes in Air Search and Rescue Operations. For many years they have been "Airmarking the Skyways like the Highways", 35 years of organizing speed dashes, efficiency contests and races has brought about the popular annual AWTAR, known as the Powder Puff Derby.

If you want information on aviation, find a Ninety-Nine. This is a fact on which the 99's pride themselves. Next to flying they love to share their enthusiasm by talking about it. One such 99 is Mrs. Thomas Meighen, 627 Glen Eyrie Ct.

Tennis Courts At Park May Be Ready Soon

The three south tennis courts in Monument Valley Park are expected to be ready for use within the next two weeks.

The courts, which are being resurfaced, will bring all six courts at the popular park back into play. Willie J. Adams, who has the $6,200 contract for the job was scheduled to pour the concrete for the third court today.

The contract calls for the three courts to be paved with 15,504 square feet of concrete, three inches deep.

Owner Reports Theft Of Jacket From Car

State Pen Chaplain Resigns

The Rev. Richard Sammon, Protestant chaplain at Colorado State Penitentiary since 1958, has resigned his position, it has been announced.

The Rev. Sammon resigned, it was reported, for health reasons. He and his wife plan to leave Canon City soon for Cathedral City, Calif.

The Rev. Sammon came to Canon City as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in 1951, coming from Des Moines, Iowa, where he served two years as pastor of Union Park Presbyterian Church.

Previously, Rev. Sammon lived in Colorado, holding pastorates at Manitou Springs and Las Animas. He is a native of Lawrenceville, Ga.

Mrs. Sammon has been elementary music supervisor in Re-1, and former District No. 1 school of Canon City for ten years. She is active in PEO and Eastern Star and prior to teaching participated in women's club work and music circles. She will teach at Cathedral City.

Registration Set for Benet Hill Academy

Final registration for Benet Hill Academy has been set for Aug. 19. At this time, students will confirm pre-registrations submitted last spring, receive their schedule of classes, and procure books.

As the school moves into its second academic year, the curriculum is being expanded to include chemistry, American history, English III, Religion III, French, Spanish, studio art, speech and debate, and orchestra.

The dwelling at 2581 Chelton has been converted into an academy with a vice-principal's office, classrooms, and a chemistry laboratory.

The chapel has been moved to Marian hall, and the former chapel area is now the reference room of a new instructional materials center.

Renovations at 2560 Chelton provide a playhouse for orchestra work, chorus rehearsals, and academy assemblies.

With the addition of the junior year, sixty students are being accepted for the new school term.

MY ANSWER

N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: There have been several articles in the newspapers recently about some preachers who do not believe in the Virgin Birth. If we believe in Christ what difference does that make? —P. L.

ANSWER: To me and many others it makes a great deal of difference. First of all, the integrity of the bible is at stake. If Christ was not Virgin Born both Matthew and Luke make false statements. Also, it is the most satisfactory explanation of "how" God became man—the incarnation. The Church has held the doctrine unbroken since down through the centuries. It is not one whit more remarkable than the resurrection of our Lord, a fact as fully attested to as any in history. We believe that Jesus Christ was Creator of the world, pre-existent with God. The Virgin Birth explains His transition into this world.

A careful reading of the accounts in Matthew and Luke carry great conviction. Nowhere can one find as fine example of a profound and difficult truth (for Mary as well as Joseph) explained in language which carries conviction and avoids giving offense. To reject the Virgin Birth is to say that Jesus had a human father and certainly implies that Mary was guilty of a fearful sin. Once one rejects the Virgin Birth it is possible to reject any other doctrine having to do with His Person and Work.

Goren on Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—As South you hold:
Spades, A-10-6; Hearts, A-K-Q;
J-10; Diamonds, J-4; Clubs, K-J-6.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Hrt. Pass 2 Dia. Pass
3 Hrts. Pass 5 Dia. Pass

What action do you take?
A—Partner hardly can have less than a solid six or seven card diamond suit, which is all you need for a slam in hearts. You cannot contemplate a grand slam, for if partner had the ace of clubs he no doubt would have taken time out to show it. Because of your club holding it would be hazardous to permit partner to play the hand; therefore, your correct bid is six hearts.

Q 2—As South you hold:
Spades, 6-2; Hearts, J-5-3; Diamonds, 10-6-4-2; Clubs, 10-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Spd. 2 Hrts. Pass Pass
Dbl. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A—Two spades. We would decline to bid our "best suit" in the interest of economy. This is the cheapest action open to us. No remote thought is to be given to a pass.

Q 3—As South you hold:
Spades, 6-2; Hearts, J-5-3; Diamonds, 10-6-4-2; Clubs, 10-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 Spd. 2 Hrts. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A—Pass. There is no need to rescue partner. Inasmuch as he has not been doubled you are not to assume that he is in trouble. A bid by you is more apt to incite him to further action.

Q 4—As South you hold:
Spades, 6-2; Hearts, J-5-3; Diamonds, 10-6-4-2; Clubs, 10-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 Spd. 2 Hrts. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A—Opposite partner's jump shift, you hold a very impressive hand. Though its value at the outset was 14 points, now

A—Three no trump. Obviously you wish to play for game with this powerful hand and no indirect methods are necessary.

Q 5—As South you hold:
Spades, A; Hearts, A-8-5-2; Diamonds, Q-J-9-7; Clubs, 10-6-4-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 Spd. Pass ?

What is your response?
A—This hand contains 11 points in high cards and is therefore too strong for a one no trump response. The choice, therefore, simmers down to two hearts or two diamonds. Our preference is for the latter as less apt to lead to complications. Whenever we can reasonably avoid a take-out to two in a very weak four card major, we try to do so. In this case, if partner has four fairly good hearts, he may conveniently show them over your two diamond bid.

Q 6—As South you hold:
Spades, K-7-3; Hearts, Q-8-4; Diamonds, K-6-4-2; Clubs, A-Q-6.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Hrt. Pass 2 N.T. Pass
3 Dia. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—The suggested call is a return to three hearts. There is no occasion for any more drastic action at this time. You are warned not to get too excited. Do not lose sight of the fact that your two no trump bid promised 13-14 or 15 points. You have 14.

Q 7—As South you hold:
Spades, J-10-9-8-7-6; Hearts, A-10-3; Diamonds, K-8; Clubs, A-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Spd. Pass 3 Clubs. Pass
3 Spds. Pass 4 Spds. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Opposite partner's jump shift, you hold a very impressive hand. Though its value at the outset was 14 points, now

Q 8—As South you hold:
Spades, A-4; Hearts, 9-8; Diamonds, K-Q-J-9-8-7; Clubs, A-Q-J.

The bidding has proceeded:
East South
4 Spds. ?

What do you bid?
A—Five diamonds. This may turn out badly but we consider it was a well calculated risk. There is no scientific way to find out if you can make the game and the prospective profit is worth the risk.

By The Chicago Tribune

that spades have been supported your hand may be revealed at 17 points—one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth.

Therefore, you may conclude that you have sufficient values for a slam, for partner's jump shift promised at least 19 points. We suggest a direct bid of six spades, or if you wish to enjoy the ceremony you may prolong the fun by showing one of your aces.

Q 8—As South you hold:
Spades, A-4; Hearts, 9-8; Diamonds, K-Q-J-9-8-7; Clubs, A-Q-J.

The bidding has proceeded:
East South
4 Spds. ?

What do you bid?
A—Five diamonds. This may turn out badly but we consider it was a well calculated risk. There is no scientific way to find out if you can make the game and the prospective profit is worth the risk.

HINTS FROM

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
I use fitted sheets when making dust ruffles. It sure keeps the ruffle in place!

I put the fitted sheet on the mattress, mark around the sheet with a pencil, using the mattress as a guide, then sew the dust ruffle to the fitted sheet, where I have marked it.

When laundering, it is not necessary to iron the fitted sheet as the mattress hides the un-ironed part.

It takes a little work to put this on the boxspring. But, oh... how nice it is when making the bed.

It sure stays put. E.D.F.

Dear Heloise:
For girls who have slips that are too long, and also have those lovely ruffled edges, why not tint them a pastel color and wear them for waltz length night gowns. Emme

Dear Folks:
For those of you who have sick people who lie in bed, day after day, and who are quite incapacitated (they can't turn themselves over, etc.):

If the TV is near the bedside table try putting a mirror on the opposite wall so that the television will reflect in this mirror.

Here's what is good about it. People who are bedridden get very tired lying on one side. Even if they are lying on their backs their heads have to be turned to one side to look at television.

By putting this little mirror (which can be bought at any dime, department, or drug store) on the opposite wall so that the television can reflect in it, it not only relieves the muscles on the back of their neck, but they can lie on the opposite side of their bodies! This prevents pressure on all the other muscles. Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Here is what I do when I sweep my garage floor:

I hold my clothes sprinkler bottle about shoulder-high and sprinkle all over the floor lightly. I can then sweep without breathing a bit of dust and the floor is good and clean. Mandy

Dear Heloise:
When putting fresh eggs in the refrigerator, I put a pencil mark on the eggs bought the previous time.

This prevents any eggs from being left in the refrigerator for any length of time. Rose Mazur

Dear Heloise:
We keep our dog and cat indoors and have the problem of hair getting on the rugs.

I dampen my sponge mop with cool water and pick up or roll up the hair from the rugs. I use the dampened sponge mop as though I'm sweeping the rugs. What's left is usually in wads, which I can then pick up with the vacuum cleaner.

I use this method with a hand sponge when the cat gets on the furniture. Emilie

Enemy Doubts
U.S. Strength,
Barry Claims

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater said today Communist doubts about U.S. strength and will in Southeast Asia may have led North Viet Nam to launch its patrol boat attacks on American destroyers.

And Goldwater declared his support of President Johnson's retaliatory air strikes will not mute "our basic criticism" of the way the administration is handling the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam.

Warning of the risk of "war in our time" unless the Free World maintains its military might, the Arizona senator said the nuclear punch the United States can deliver may be cut by 90 per cent in the next decade "unless present plans are changed by the demand of an aroused public."

In an address prepared for the National Association of Counties — his first formal speech since his nomination last month — Goldwater called that "the most perilous statistic of all."

He said I will "tempt the forces of aggression — just as weakness has tempted them to war three times in our century."

Goldwater said the theme of "peace through preparedness" will be a major message of his presidential campaign.

"Today," he said, "as it has before three wars in the past, our guard is dropping in every sense."

"Under our present defense leadership, with its utter disregard for new weapons, our deliverable nuclear capacity may be cut down by 90 per cent in the next decade," he said.

"Winston Churchill once was called an extremist because he spoke up for Britain's defenses at a time when appeasement was popular," the senator said.

"Had he, rather than those who called him names, been listened to, there is every reason to believe that the second world war could have been prevented."

Today, Goldwater said, "there are those who fear that strength may only provoke the enemy."

He added: "Was it strength that was responsible for the attacks on our destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin? Or was it the enemy's double of our strength and our will to use it."

"I charge that our policies have become so involved, so twisted with diplomatic red tape that the enemy might well wonder if we would accept their attacks at sea on the same basis that we have been accepting their attacks on land."

Goldwater said he supports Johnson's response — the air strikes staged against North Vietnamese port facilities last Tuesday. But he said it was only "an incident, not a program or a new policy; a tactical reaction, not a new winning strategy."

"We will not let this one action obscure a multitude of other needed actions," Goldwater said. "We will not let our support today silence our basic criticism: that the war in Viet Nam — and let's call it what it is, a war is being fought under policies that obscure our purposes, confuse our allies, prolong the fighting."

"We must, instead, prosecute the war in Viet Nam with the object of ending it, along with the threats to the peace that it poses," Goldwater said. "Taking strong action simply to return to the status quo is not worthy of our sacrifices, our ideals or our vision."

WOLF PACK
COZENZA, Italy (AP)—Herdsmen Giovanni Foglia stood off a famished wolf pack with a club until neighboring farmers heard his cries and came to his aid with guns. They saved a herd of calves, killed one wolf and drove the others back into the Sila mountain wilds. The starving wolves often come down from the Calabrian mountains in summer to raid farms.

A. D. LANMAN

Palmer Graduate Recipient of Top Scholarship

Arley Dean Lanman, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Lanman, of 1602 W. St. Vrain St., recently received the Batchelder Foundation Scholarship.

This scholarship is a five-year scholarship, and it is given each year to a select number of students who plan to enter the field of architecture, interior design, or the fine arts.

However, Arley must maintain the scholastic and leadership minimums established by the foundation.

Lanman is also the recipient of the National Defense Scholarship. This scholarship is renewable if Arley maintains their scholastic minimums.

He plans to further his education this fall at Kansas State University, where he will major in architecture.

He graduated from William J. Palmer High School in June of this year. While at Palmer, he was an active member of the National Honor Society, Assemblies Committee, Publicity Committee, Future Scientists of America, Terror Tribe, Latin Club, Die Schnee Geiste, and Social Activities Committee.
